State Will Vacate Bank Near Narberth

Deputy Receiver to Move Staff to Lansdowne Central Office

IS TRI-COUNTY COMBINE

Last of the three former Merion Title and Trust Company bank buildings will soon be available for private enterprise, it was learned this week from Frank Glatfelter, deputy receiver for the State Banking Department.

The building, located at Haverford and Narberth avenues just across the Narberth borough line in Lower Merion Township, will be vacated due to a consolidation of closed bank work for Montgomery, Delaware and Chester Counties in a central office in the Lansdowne Bank and Trust Company Building, Lansdowne.

Mr. Glatfelter, who, with his staff, has occupied the local building, will have charge of thirteen closed banks' assets, appraised as of October 31 at $6,062,722, in the tri-county area.

The property used by the defunct trust company in Ardmore is now occupied by the Pennsylvania Company, while a lease to the American Stores Company is being negotiated for the old bank's premises at Bala-Cynwyd.

It will be a month, perhaps longer, before the local bank is vacated, Mr. Glatfelter said.

Mulieres Plan Luncheon and Series of Dances

The Mulieres of the Narberth Fire Company will hold a covered-dish luncheon and Christmas party in Elm Hall December 14 at 12.30 for the members only. There will be no charge. There will be ten door prizes. The committee in charge is Mrs. John Barrell, Mrs. Albert Burgstesser, Mrs. Charles Viguers, Jr., Mrs. Lloyd B. Edgerton, Mrs. Charles Harnden, Mrs. William Evans, Mrs. Stanley Haigh, Mrs. J. J. Findelson, Mrs. William Erickson and Miss Flora Kurzenkne. All members of the organization are cordially invited.

Beginning January 13 there will be a series of card parties: February 12, March 10, April 15 and May 13. A prize will be given February 8 at the regular meeting of the Mulieres for securing the most new members in the membership drive.

Membership Tea Successful; Juniors Meet Next Dec. 10

The Junior Community Club of Narberth held a very lovely tea on Sunday afternoon to welcome new members to the club.

The clubroom was transformed into a drawing room by the lavish use of candlelight, chrysanthemums and gleaming silver. Mrs. Ralph Heath, president of the Senior Women's Club and Mrs. Joseph Miller, Junior Advisor from the Senior Club poured. These two, together with Mrs. S. V. Smith, president of the Junior Club, Mrs. F. M. Purse, chairman of fellowship, Mrs. T. A. Fisher, chairman of hospitality and Mrs. H. B. Laine, chairman of membership, formed the receiving line. Radio music was the background for much friendly conversation. In fact it was a most successful affair thanks to Sally Laine, Dot Leitch, Amy Gillis and Kay Wheeler—the Membership Committee in charge.

Over twenty new members have been welcomed into the club. Among the new ones noticed at the tea were: Mrs. G. J. Albert, Mrs. G. Burnside, Miss E. K. Crosley, Miss M. L. Glessner, Mrs. H. O. Hammerich, Mrs. Maynard Marshall, Miss Marie Meyer, Mrs. R. F. Tattersfield, Miss Ingeborg Thaysen, Miss Betty Rankin, Mrs. H. E. Waters and Miss Muriel Wells.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Thursday, December 10. This meeting is to be in charge of the Public Welfare Committee and will take the form of a discussion on Birth Control.

E. A. Alburger, of Meadow lane, left Monday for a three weeks' cruise to the West Indies.

Shareholders Will Receive First Dividend From Narberth National

Over 200 shareholders of The National Bank of Narberth will receive a dividend of $1 on each share of record December 1. Checks will be mailed about December 15.

This is the first dividend to be declared either by the present bank, which was organized May 9, 1934, or its predecessor, the Narberth National Bank, which was organized in May, 1925.

The dividend, payable on 1000 shares, was voted by the institution's directors at their meeting November 30, when it was also voted to add $1000 to the surplus fund and $1000 to the reserve for contingencies.

At its organization the bank was capitalized at $50,000, with a surplus of $10,000. Its deposits as of June 30, 1936, were $521,636.33.

Officers of The National Bank of Narberth are: E. C. Griswold, president; George A. Kerbaugh, vice-president; Carl B. Metzger, Jr., cashier, and A. Donald Amesbury, assistant cashier.

Directors are William C. Alexander, Jr., J. J. Cabrey, E. C. Griswold, George A. Kerbaugh, Carl B. Metzger and Frank A. Schrepfer.

Players To Present "Post Road," Mystery Thriller, December 11 & 12

Emily Madison accommodates tourists as roomers in her home on the Boston Post road and unwittingly gets mixed up with a gang of A-1 crooks. On Friday and Saturday, December 11 and 12, under the direction of Kathleen McConnell, the Narberth Players are presenting at the Narberth Public School Auditorium their version of the "Post Road," with Lucile Clarke as Emily Madison, the part played by Lucile Watson at the Masque Theatre in New York.

George McAllister as George Preble is a regular Caspar Milquetoast whose chief joy is his radio, and May Madison Preble, married to down-trodden George, played by Helen Weatherall, aid Emily in the final denouement.

The cast scheduled for the two-act, laugh-getting mystery, written by Wilbur Daniel Steele and Norma Mitchell, will include Leo McCollough, Phil Pitcher, Natalie Fleck, Grace Werner, William Dougherty, Bob Estes, Nancy Simpson.

Rev. Wesley Cartwright seemingly should have a sobering effect on the tempo of the play, but watch him revolutionize the laymen's conception of the duties of the ministry.

Dr. Spender, a role played by Phil Pitcher, and Natalie Fleck, as Nurse Martin, play a surprising part in the mysterious case handled by the doctor at Emily Madison's Connecticut home. While spinster and gangster hold spotlight and footlight on the auditorium stage, "The Girl," by Grace Werner, will ably take attention by "hook and crook."

Joey Cashier, popping out of a size fourteen dress and popping in with the wash at Emily Madison's house, is portrayed splendidly by young Nancy Simpson.

Bill and Celia, played by Bob Estes and Anita Miller, portray a young married couple, and Matt, the chauffeur, played by William Dougherty, all do well in their respective parts.

Mary Muller and Faith Farmer, as Mrs. Cashier and Mrs. Canby, help to create the small-town setting, and Policeman Virgil Benis, George Werner, round out a well-selected cast. C. L.

Six-Foot Square Taxi Shelter Runs Afoul of Building and Lease Snags

Drivers of the Narberth Taxicab Company wanted a place to keep out of the cold this winter and also one in which to do a bit of office work. The idea being agreeable to their boss, Clarence R. Humphries, work was started Monday by George W. Bottoms, local contractor, on a two-sided and roofed office-shelter in the corner of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's right-of-way between the stairway and tunnel entrances on Station Circle.

Tuesday afternoon work ceased, with the structure about half completed. It seemed that Mr. Bottoms had neglected to get a permit from Building Inspector George B. Supplee, who also viewed the wooden building as a fire hazard.

Mr. Supplee was glad to co-operate so far as he could under the building code, hated to see the work go to waste, had no desire to aid Old Man Winter in freezing the drivers between fares on cold nights. Wednesday afternoon he received a ruling from Henry A. Frye, borough solicitor, that a permit could be issued if the sides and roof of the structure were covered with a fireproof material.

Then it was discovered that Mr. Humphries had also been neglectful in failing to get a lease from the railroad company for the site of his building (about six feet square). The Narberth Taxicab Company had the concession for a stand, but not for the erection of an office.

Thursday morning it was learned from the Real Estate Department of the railroad that the question of granting a lease was still pending. So it's still whether or no.

Narberth's newly organized pro tem Board of Health is headed by Daniel Leitch, former president of borough council (1921-33), as president.

Dr. Edwin C. Town was chosen vice-president. George B. Supplee was rechosen as secretary and treasurer, plumbing inspector and health officer.

The four new members of the Board, which will serve until the end of the year, Mr. Leitch, Dr. Town, Mrs. Roy C. Williams and Arthur L. Cooke, were sworn into office last Friday night at Elm Hall, Narberth, by William H. Fretz, president of Council and acting burgess in the absence of John R. Hall. Mrs. R. C. Hoffman is the only member of the old board to continue in office.

The new Board immediately drew up a revised budget for 1937, appointed committees and changed its meeting date from the third to the first Tuesday of the month.

The Health Board budget, which will be presented for first reading at council's meeting December 14, calls for $2200, a decrease of $300 from the budget presented at the November council meeting by the former Board of Health, and a reduction of $200 from the $2400 allotted during the last four years. Its items are: Milk control work with Lower Merion Township, $1300; testing ice cream (six months), $40; printing, etc., $20; health center, $300; salary of secretary, $150; salary of health officer, $350; testing water, $40. The major reduction is $100 less asked for milk control work.

Named by President Leitch to committee chairmanships were: Complaints, Mrs. Williams; plumbing and drainage, Mr. Cooke; Milk Control District No. 1 representative, Mrs. Hoffman; health center, Mrs. Williams.

The new board held its first regular monthly meeting Tuesday.

Its four new members are successors to Dr. George A. Sloan, Tristan B. duMarais, Wharton B. Carroll and W. D. R. Evans whose expired terms were ended recently by borough council action.

Main Lines

Dairy inspection score cards to be used in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania as well as in several municipalities, will be modeled after the card used in Milk Control District No. 1, including Lower Merion and Narberth, of which Dr. George W. Grim is milk control officer.

The Autocar Company, Ardmore, now has 1100 persons employed, its largest payroll in eight years, according to Robert F. Wood, Autocar advertising manager. One hundred new men have been added recently.

A testimonial dinner to Hiram Ganser, newly elected and only Democratic member of the Legislature from Montgomery County (second district) will be held at the Valley Forge Hotel, Norristown, December 17.

One case each of scarlet fever, tuberculosis, German measles and chicken pox were reported in Lower Merion for last week by Health Officer Marvin E. Reynolds.

William B. Walker has purchased from the estate of James N. Knipe the Colonial residence and half acre of ground at 322 Hathaway lane, Wynnewood, which he will occupy as his home.

The Special Session of the State Legislature, which started Tuesday, indefinitely postponed the county League of Women Voters luncheon planned that day for the county legislative delegation. Mrs. W. M. Gehmann, Jr., Cynwyd, county league president, said "We hope that it will be possible to have it later."

The Animal Owners' Protective Association of Pennsylvania last night at its Ardmore office planned a campaign for new members. Magistrate F. P. Kromer, Cynwyd, is its president; Peter C. Barr, Cynwyd, its operating manager.

A Community Success

The action of the Directors of The National Bank of Narberth in declaring the first dividend in the history of the bank should be a source of pride to the entire community, for the institution is in every sense a community effort.

During that dark year when Narberth, as a result of the depression, was threatened with the loss of its bank, the depositors of the original institution stepped forward, and by pledging a large part of the funds on deposit, created the capital for a new bank. It was a civic move, but the Reorganization Committee held out the promise that the new bank, when its deposits reached a half million, would pay its way.

This promise has been more than fulfilled. The half million dollar figure was quickly reached and has been substantially bettered, and conservative management produced profits almost from the outset. This week's action is a result—the first reward to the 200 stockholders for their foresight and faith.

The additional fact that this disbursement still permits the Directors to enlarge the Surplus and Contingent Funds, thus adding to the security of the bank, is a promising sign to stockholders and depositors alike. The need of a small, personal, local bank, stressed during the organization period, has been well justified.

The Spectator

Need of Daily Newspaper With Opinions Pointed Out

Aldous Huxley in his "Notes on Propaganda" says that most people choose their daily paper not for its opinions, but chiefly for its capacity to amuse and to "fill the vacancies of leisure." Certainly, the recent campaign, when more than 80 per cent of the newspapers of the United States were arrayed against the Administration, proved that present-day editorials influence precious few votes, a low ebb in journalism which appears to find its parallel in England, where the Liberal and Labor parties gained power (at various times) in the face of an almost united opposition press, and also in France, where the Socialists and those of redder hue are at the helm despite the preponderance of highly conservative newspapers.

In this country, at least, substantial reasons for the decline of the Fourth Estate are not difficult to isolate and there will be no gains made until the publishers recognize that there must be a restoration of the fine sense of public accountability and exemplary tradition which formerly obtained and which made our editors of yesterday the foremost of all American citizenry.

In Philadelphia there is an insistent need of another newspaper, to be issued preferably in the evening, but how it is to come to pass is another question, except possibly by means of a foundation or as the result of inspired private wealth which can afford the considerable losses of the first years and wait indefinitely for the earnings which should occur ultimately. In any event, it would be a highly difficult enterprise, particularly as all of the old Associated Press franchises have been sequestered by the present papers, and perhaps the only use of talking about it is to spread discontent with the current status of things or to encourage one of the existent organizations to desert the pack and produce a newspaper which will be a true mirror of the American mind at its best and not merely an organ of its owners nor one where editorial freedom has been shackled and dethroned and where the business office is in complete sovereignty.

There are those who still recall when George W. Childs owned the old Public Ledger and they will remember the grip which its editorial expressions had on their elders. It was the kind of excellent influence which permeated the entire community and all phases of it, as was attested when the old gentleman died and when this chronicler, as a very small boy, walked many miles to be at his funeral, along with almost all the rest of Philadelphia. They carried his body from the marble mansion at 22nd and Walnut streets (still standing) across the street to St. James' Church and it seemed that everybody cried.

At the old Press there was Charles Emory Smith, who never failed to wield an honest and forthright pen and who impressed himself on the nation in a manner which made him Ambassador to Russia. At the same time on the Press (which also begot Hampton Moore, Judge Harry McDewitt, Judge "Eddie" Lewis, Richard Harding Davis, James O. G. Duffy, Talcott Williams, Harvey Maitland Watts, et al ad inf.) there was John Dwyer, father of our Commander Frank J. Dwyer, of the Harold Speakman Post, of Narberth, who was probably the most notable political reporter in all the Philadelphia archives, and whose widely recognized talents landed him to the editorship of the Record. Tom Daly, now lazily filling a half-column in the Bulletin, had part of his up-bringing on the Record, where he received the kind of encouragement and latitude which helped to make him one of the nation's best bards, a well-earned distinction of which most of his present readers are probably not aware.

And, of course, there was that noblest of Romans, Colonel "Alex" McClure, of the Times, and ask your grandfather how his stirring editorials made the welkin ring and how endeared he was to every literate household in Philadelphia and far beyond.

In more recent years the death of Perrine of the Bulletin has proven to be of large and cumulative consequence, as the procedure after him has hardly simulated the virile mastery which was his nor has there been any succession of his genuine and highly intelligent concern in men and things in Philadelphia particu-

Pedigreed Guernsey Cattle Are Bred on Brookmead Farms; Milk Standards Improved

On rolling, green acres of Chester County, whose unbroken dairy history traces back to before the American Revolution, is located one of the most important breeding farms for milk cows in the United States.

It is widely known Brookmead Farms, two and one-half miles east of Devon. Specializing in the breeding and selling of pure-bred Guernseys, it has as a side line the sale of milk, cream and fine ice cream.

Brookmead is the hobby and one of the chief interests of Frank Graham Thomson, Philadelphia financier and attorney, and son of a former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The story of Brookmead is as old as the Nation itself. It was already prominent in 1776 and, during the Valley Forge encampment of Washington's army, his chief-of-staff is reported to have had headquarters in the original farm building.

The ragged Continental soldiers knew the place well. There are tales that they used to slip into the grounds to steal milk and that, on one occasion, a soldier had to be shot as an example to the others.

Mr. Thomson's interest traces back to 1914, when he purchased the 247-acre property, then a commercial dairy farm, and dedicated it to the improvement of the Guernsey breed, one of the finest of all milk producers.

Since then it has given the cattle world its share of champions, of noted herd bulls, of show animals and of cows remarkable for their ability to produce milk.

In addition to the fine animals he raises, Mr. Thomson is constantly purchasing outstanding animals in this country and abroad to better the strain.

And, likewise, he is selling Brookmead Guernseys here and abroad.

lary and in the country at large generally, a deficiency which it seems is being revealed quite increasingly.

Inquire today as to the identity of the Philadelphia editors and while Stern of the Record may be named often enough, the others remain in almost perfect oblivion. Stern proves there is a better way than the prevalent way, but Philadelphia needs sadly a better way than Stern's way, and some day it may come unto us, in which case we will have ample reason to be very, very glad.

Dr. Sloan Charges Council is "One-Man-Controlled"

Subsequent to Narberth Borough Council's ending the expired terms of four members of the Board of Health by appointing their successors, Dr. George R. Sloan, Board president for 10 years, issued a statement in which he charged that Borough Council is a "one-man-controlled" body . . . "like a Toonerville Trolley."

Alleging that Council did not give a fair hearing to the old board's proposal to withdraw from Milk Control District No. 1 and to do its own milk control work, Dr. Sloan said "the opinion of opposition was well formed in advance."

His statement concludes:

"This Borough Council of ours has a mind set against any change, no matter how proposed, unless by its own body. It does not choose to be informed, it is too lazy to study any change as to the virtue and soundness. It does not recognize careful economies, which do not reduce efficiency but save money."

"It is my present belief that it is high time we had a change in the borough. We had better fold up and go back to Lower Merion for guidance."

"Ladies in Love," "Old Hutch" and Shirley Temple Film Coming to Narberth

"My Man Godfrey," starring William Powell and Carole Lombard and now at the Narberth Theatre shows this romantic pair in the greatest roles they have ever played together. Added Saturday at 1 P. M. is the Columbia Happy Hour.

Monday and Tuesday the four-star attraction is "Ladies in Love." What each of four women gains in her quest for love is shown in this drama of human emotions. And the cast—Janet Gaynor, Simone Simon, Loretta Young and Constance Bennett.

In a whimsical role best suited to his talents, Wallace Beery, veteran of a hundred stirring characterizations, appears in "Old Hutch" on Wednesday (Cash Award Night).

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday brings Shirley Temple to the Narberth in her latest vehicle "Dimples." Shirley will sing, dance and act at her best as usual.

"Bride Walks Out" at Egyptian This Week-End

"The Bride Walks Out," a charming, amusing, dramatic hit, is at the Egyptian, starring Barbara Stanwyck and Gene Raymond.

Next Monday and Tuesday Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire are coming in "Swing Time."

Wednesday and (Bank Night) Thursday, the comedy farce sensation, "Ex Mrs. Bradford," will be the feature attraction.

"Libeled Lady" will conclude the week and carry on for the first two days of the following week. It is that four-day-run kind of a picture—the kind no one wants to miss. The cast includes William Powell, Myrna Loy, Jean Harlow and Spencer Tracy.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mullin, of Woodside avenue, Narberth, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of twin boys Monday, November 30.

Mrs. Mullin is the former Miss Irene Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stanley, of Narberth.

Guernsey Cattle Bred on Brookmead Farms

Large Yearly Sale

Forty to fifty head are sold annually. They have brought prices as high as $5000 for a single bull and as much as $4700 for one cow. The average selling price for bulls and cows has been more than $2000.

From professional breeders and wealthy amateurs Mr. Thompson claims the top prices. To Guernsey farmers not able to meet such competition, he sells for what they can afford to pay. Registered bull calves of finest registered ancestry have been sold for as little as $250 to aid farmers in improving their herds.

His market is virtually every dairy State from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. There are Brookmead Guernseys in California and Oregon.

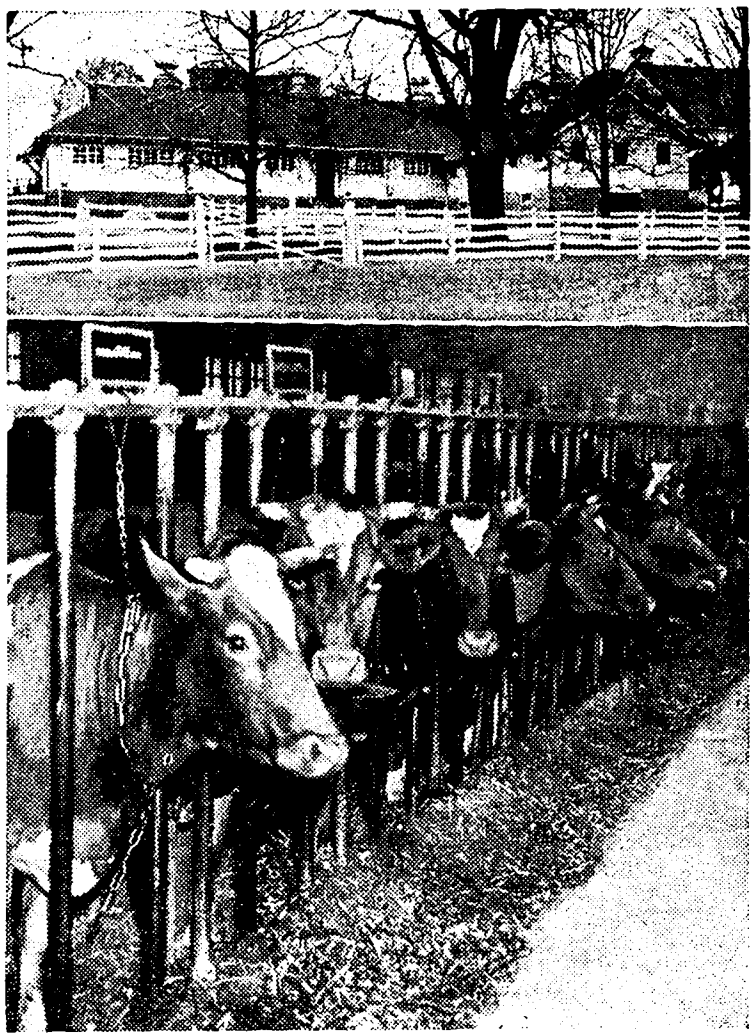

Last year the Minister of Agriculture of Venezuela purchased two herd bulls to improve the breed in that South American nation. Other Brookmead cattle have been sold to Bermuda.

Only Fittest Kept

So rigid are Brookmead standards that only the fittest of even the high-calibre registered stock born on the farm are kept for breeding purposes. After Brookmead cows begin to give milk they are placed on test for an entire year. Only those which prove themselves outstanding milkers are kept. The others are sold—frequently to the butcher.

One of the outstanding animals in the present Brookmead herd of 120 is Bloomfield Water Girl. As a three-year-old, in 1934, she set a world's record for Guernseys of her age, producing 14,183.5 pounds of milk in a 305-day test period. This was during a series of herd improvement tests.

For Better Guernseys

Two views of Brookmead Farms, Chester County, dedicated to improving the breed of Guernsey milk cows, are shown above. The top picture is one of the large sanitary barns. Below are part of the herd of 120 Guernsey cattle—all of them registered, pure-blood stock. Frank Graham Thomson, Philadelphia financier, owns the farm.

Imported Surprise of Brookmead is a champion that Mr. Thomson imported as a calf from the Island of Guernsey, British Isles, in 1928. She set four official Pennsylvania records as a producer. As a two-year-old she produced 15,960.2 pounds of milk. As a four-year-old her production was 16,473.7 pounds, and as a five-year-old (a cow's best year) she established the sensational record of 21,341.1 pounds.

When she was nine years old, Imported Surprise made a record of 10,814.6 pounds in a 305-day test.

There are many other great Brookmead cows, such as Brookmead Pharos and Brookmead's Virginia.

Operate Dairy Business

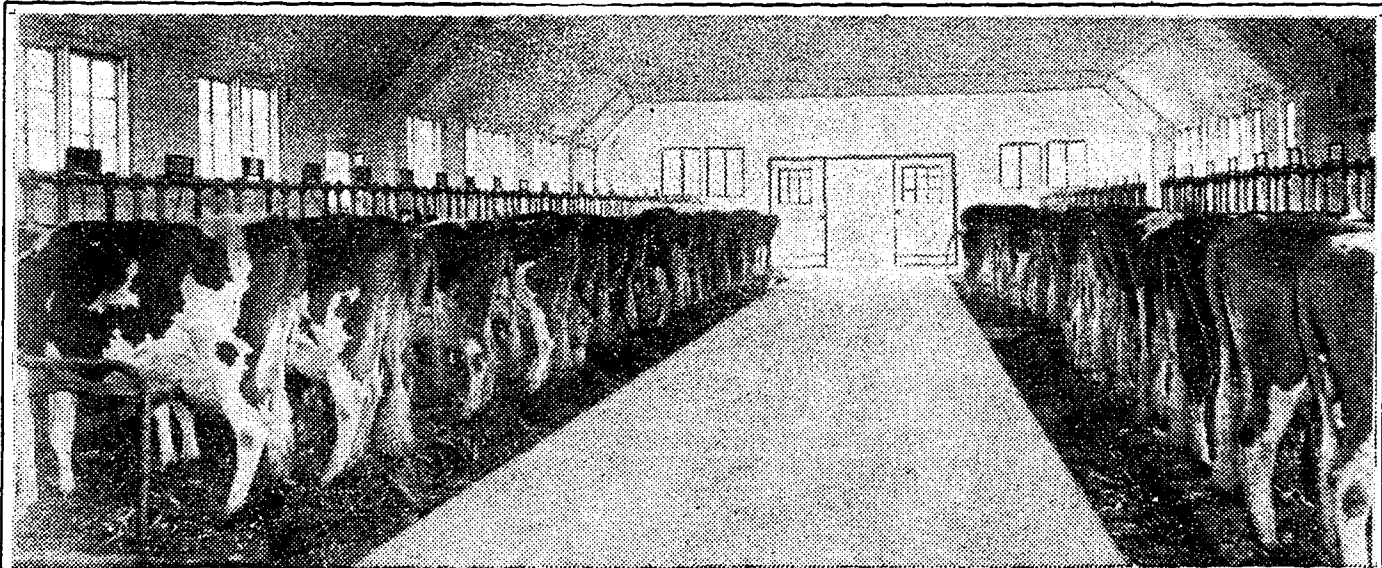

The Brookmead stock has been shown at most of the leading shows of the country, including the National Dairy Show at St. Louis, at Trenton, Springfield, Mass.; Baltimore, and locally at the Bryn Mawr Horse Show.

They have won a formidable array of ribbons, including many of the coveted blues.

Newest accession to the herd is Langwater Gleeful, an eight-month-old bull bred by John S. Ames, of North Easton, Mass. The purpose of bringing in fine outside stock is to strengthen the breed and not to let it suffer from too much inbreeding.

To operate the breeding farm there is a staff of fourteen men under the supervision of Henry Hemmen, Hollander trained in the best European dairy traditions.

The fifty-five cows now used for milk production give about 600 quarts daily. This goes to the Brookmead Guernsey Dairies at Wayne. The milk is bottled only at Grade A and is sold as raw milk. The dairy also bottles cream and manufactures various flavors of ice cream of the highest and richest quality.

TIME OUT With TOMMY MACKLIN

It is a very difficult thing to leave King Football on his death bed. Those of us who follow his fortunes and have words to write about his weekly doings, feel that there is something that has been left unsaid.

There are a few stray battles left to be fought before the Old Man gives up all of his ghost this year. Ole Miss tackles Tennessee or somebody, Texas Christian battles with Santa Clara, Temple plays St. Mary's, and there are three bowl games to be played around the New Year. Around the Eastern circuit, however, football is through. It has been a highly interesting season. Penn's defeat of Princeton and Michigan, Harvard's great showing against Princeton and Yale, the surge of the underdogs who gave stunning defeats to Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Fordham, Holy Cross and many other first rank schools—all combined to lend a piquant and highly desirable flavor to this year's football feast.

The most interesting sidelight of the season has been contributed by the sportswriters of many of the daily papers. The headlines read rather loudly each week with the caption: "Experts pick the Winners in Today's Games." Then in a boxed formation come the names of the paper's sportswriters with their opinions as to who will win, followed with a cute reason for same. The combined batting average of all the experts wouldn't insure them a job with the Phillies.

The boys who hover around the press boxes have contributed another good laugh this year. Remember the time all the writers shouted in big headlines, "Leave the rules alone?" They insisted that the rules were all right as they were. The game was perfect—shouldn't be tampered with. Very good. Few changes have been made during the last few years.

Now they want the interference on forward passing erased from the book. It is unfair—a flop—an injustice. Do you suppose they want it re-written? Not really. It happens to be good material for a crusade at the present time.

My big laugh for the year has been furnished by The Philadelphia Inquirer's Perry Lewis. He wins the loving cup for his reporting of the Penn games on Franklin Field. Following the Navy game when Bill Miller (one of our boys) stole the show with some remarkable ball running, Mr. Lewis mentioned him enthusiastically as the inexperienced lad who let the Navy pass receiver score a touchdown. It happened to be Murray's man, I've been told by several players. Then in the Cornell game, those who saw the combat can remember Miller's splendid blocking and defensive work and couldn't have missed his three romps for long gains, two on runbacks of kicks and once from scrimmage. Our Inquirer reporter shot the works in comment this time. He spoke of the Main Line player once, I believe. He said "At this point Warwick substituted for Miller." Generous, I say.

Basketball is just about to open the door for a new season. A few details about the Maroon squad will be brought you next week.

Narberth Five Wins Pair of M. L. League Games

After just squeezing out a victory, 32-30, against the Haverford Aces at Brookline in the Main Line Basketball League opener last Friday, Narberth's quintet went to Phoenixville Monday night and trounced the home team, 55-29.

In the Phoenixville route, Hens Soler scored 10 points and Russ Herrmann accounted for 16 points.

The Narberth's "B's" lost at Phoenixville in the prelim, 24-31.

Narberth meets Rosemont at the Haverford Township High School this Monday, battles Penn Wynne on the 10th.

In the "B" division, it's Narberth vs. Haverford this Thursday, versus Artisans this Monday, versus Autocar the 10th.

Contributors to this paper are requested to send in news early—to avoid last-minute omissions.

In the Schools

The auditorium period on November 20 was sponsored by Miss Gassner. We had a guest speaker, Mr. Christman, from the Commercial Museum. He told us about different types of porcelain ware and what they are made of. He showed us how vases are made.

The museum case in the lower hall is now full of dolls of all nations, types and sizes.

Among our collection are Indian, Japanese, Chinese, Dutch, Hungarian and Negro dolls.

In the lower right hand corner is a large china doll, brought in by Betty Nash. It is over one hundred years old.

HELEN WIPF.

The sum of $19.20 was collected for the American Junior Red Cross, in the Narberth Public School.

The Art classes have been making book plates for book week.

The library has acquired several new books. Some are educational, some entertaining, etc.

In the library were posted several pictures each representing a story, poem, etc. All who entered this contest were to tell the name of the book and who wrote it. We don't know yet who may have the most right.

The girls' field hockey game last week finally ended in a score of 1 to 0 in favor of the Reds. The series now stands 3 to 3. There is to be one more game, and whoever wins will get the letters.

The football game, played at Friend Central, was won by Friend Central, 13 to 7.

Honored for Design

Miss Kathryn E. Wolf, daughter of Edwin T. Wolf, Wolfs Den, Narberth, was honored by the Beaux Arts Ball Jury for her creation "Planetaria."

Her design, "Planetaria," was made of trunks with bloomers which are connected with a scarf draped bodice above a high waistline, the later being formed of perpendicular pleats. A short wired skirt of transparent material, a small cap jauntily set off with stars and sandal slippers complete this costume for a young girl.

The Beaux Arts Ball takes place this evening at the Astor Hotel in New York City.
